Appendix D. David Carson Estate Sales Transcriptions, 1852-1859

March 31, 2014 DRAFT

Introduction

This is the first draft of the first in a series of Research Reports, based on the work of Janet Meranda and myself, in preparation of scholarly articles and of a biography on the life of Letitia Carson. 1814-1888. The reports are being issued by Oregon Websites and Watersheds Project, Inc. (ORWW), a 17-year old educational 501 c(3) nonprofit educational organization that also sponsors the ORWW Letitia Carson website and the Friends of Letitia Carson Facebook page.

The purpose of this report are two-fold: 1) to make important research documents regarding the life and times of Letitia Carson available to the general public -- and particularly to students and teachers -- who might find errors in the transcriptions, use this information in their studies, and/or identify additional historical documents of related interest; and 2) as a primary reference tool and appendix for the written materials currently being prepared about her life.

This is a draft report and contains glitches we are currently working to eliminate before publication of an article and portions of the biography based on these findings – and before updating the final version of this report. Factual mistakes, transcription errors, and/or missing documents are being directly addressed with the publication and distribution of this draft report, and there are also technical problems with its formatting; e.g., Jan has been unable to figure out how to make Word remove some of the lines she first put in to separate her transcriptions, and I have been unable to make Word begin numbering the pages after the Table of Contents page, not before. A result of these considerations is that colored lettering, highlights, and question marks are still included in parts of the draft so that problem areas can be more readily located for repair.

Almost all of the transcribed documents are now available online, either scanned from the originals, or as scanned photo-copies made from the originals. The name of each online file can be found in the Missouri Probate, Oregon Probate, or Carson vs. Smith folders at this address: www.ORWW.org/History/Letitia_Carson/Documentation

This report is arranged in two parts: the disposition of David Carson’s estate in Oregon and the disposition of his estate in Missouri. Each part is divided into chronological and thematic sections and each section contains an example of the material being transcribed. Part I is mostly based on original documents scanned, or copied and scanned, at the Oregon State Archives and transcribed entirely by Jan; Part II is principally based on materials provided by Lila Hyder and transcribed by Jan, and on materials located in Missouri and transcribed by Barbara Whitters: http://www.orww.org/History/Letitia_Carson/Library/Whitters-Hyder_1993.pdf

Please be aware when reading these transcriptions that Letitia, Martha (7 years), and Jack (4 years) were well known to the principals involved in these discussions and determinations.
